

The Word of God at The Feast of the Romanian Christianity, the first day. The feast of the Holy Spirit Descent

My love becomes word upon the earth, and My heart and My mouth are the spring of My word. It comes with the clouds in a whisper of wind, in a voice of the Holy Spirit and it comforts, because it is the Comforter, Whom I promised two thousand years ago for the great day of My feast of Holy Spirit over My disciples. Amen, amen, amen.

Oh, how beautifully I spoke to everybody then when I spoke to them about the promise of the Holy Spirit and I told them this: «He who believes in Me, from within him will flow rivers of living water». (John 7:38) And I said this about the Holy Spirit, Whom all those believing in Me were to receive after I had to be glorified by the Father. Oh, how beautifully I spoke then, that even the servants, who were sent by the bishops and by the Pharisees to catch Me and to bring Me before them, answered them: «No man ever spoke like This Man». (John 7:46)

Oh, how beautiful My word is in heaven and on earth upon those who have come within Me after their journey in the flesh, and again, upon you, children of the people of My word, which gives birth from above to the man by his faith in Me, a faith that works throughout love; and, again, over those who have gathered together at My calling near you now, at the days of the celebration of the Holy Spirit.

Oh, open to Me, you children who stay as gates of the entrance of My word into its book of today! Strengthen your little hearts and the power in them and give Me power to speak upon you and upon the people of My word and upon the guests who have come with Me from heaven and upon those on earth who have come together near Us for the feast, sons. Behold, I breathe upon you with the whisper of the Holy Spirit, Who becomes the word of My mouth: let My power seize you and serve to My coming, for I want to speak to those who have assembled in My gardens with you. Let your weakened power be enclosed within My power, because no man ever spoke like Me, the Son of Man, the Lord and the Teacher of My people. Let your ear be open and let your hand be hold into My hand and then take and share. Amen, amen, amen.

Behold how I do My work of Holy Spirit and the work of word! It is a sound like the rushing of a mighty wind, which comes quickly and it fills the chamber in order to fill you with the Holy Spirit, and you are to share Him afterwards. I speak in the language of everyone, and My works are wonderful like My speech. Amen.

Oh, hear My voice, you those who have come together near the mouth of My spring! I meet you with the spirit of My peace, for the peace that the spirit of the world gives you is not like that which I give you. I have put the people of My word to sacrifice itself with love and obedience, because obedience comes from love. I have told him to prepare a feast of Holy Spirit for Me and then to call you and to teach you. And what shall I teach you? I want to teach you to be thirsty and to come to Me and to drink and to believe that I am the Christ of the Father and that the Father has sent Me as word on earth and to bring together near Him all those who are His elected, those who are elected for the Father to be My brothers and My disciples. Amen. Oh, this is how I was gathering the multitudes around Me two thousand years ago, and then I was speaking to them about the kingdom of the heavens, to make My kingdom of those who were listening to My voice. And this is how I work now, and I work with great mercy, with great love, and blessed is the one who believes in this word, which is coming with a great noise from heaven, a sound like the rushing of a mighty wind (See Acts 2:2), and I give to you from it by those who share Me to you. And those who do not believe do not come; they do not give themselves to Me and that is why they do not believe and that is why they do not come when I call them to choose after they have come, and to make them faithful by My teaching, which no one can ever speak on earth except Me, because My power is the Father from Whom I hear and then I speak, for the Father is in Me, and I am in Him, and whoever believes in Me, believes in the Father as well, and that one is loved by My Father, Who comes with Me, and then We dine together with the faithful one of My coming and We appear to him, as I have promised that We will fulfill everything upon those who are righteous. Amen.

Oh, hear My voice, you who have answered to My calling! Receive and learn to live your life now and forever, so that it may be swallowed by eternity, and then to be eternal, for nothing is impossible with Me, if the man believes in My work that is upon him and which works powerfully at his faith in Me, the One Who can do everything. Amen.

Oh, man born of man, oh, how many things you have god, how many! I want to teach you to love yourself, for you do not know how to love yourself. Love is stronger than death, but you do not know how to love and how to love yourself, and in order that you may know how to love you have to hate. Oh, man born of man, you must hate death, but if you do not know which is its work, you love it and you live it instead of life, and your death hurts Me, and it has been hurting Me for seven thousand years the death of the man who took the man out of the Paradise, which I had given him to rule well over it and to live beautifully and to have it as sweet as his life, for the man without obedience to God is dead and he is not alive.

Oh, how many masters have you, man, how many! The whisper of the Holy Spirit comes to you in a breathing of the wind, for My works are wonderful and no one on earth teaches you My kingdom and its works in you.

Oh, how many masters have you, man! The house with many masters over it shakes, it falls down, and then it is no longer. You have many masters over you and upon your life. You have masters upon your hand, upon your body and upon your spirit. You have your thoughts and then you have your heart, which is your maser and for which you labor so much and in vain, for you chase after the wind. You have your body and your spirit as your masters and the life, which I gave you when I gave your soul, has been crying without your knowing what its crying is. You have children as your masters, because you serve them. You have your mob, which is a master over you. You do not rule over it, but it rules over you instead, and that is why you cannot serve the life that I gave you to live. You serve your mob after you have assembled it. You have the tastes of your heart which controls you and for which you have been working so hard and you forget that your work is in vain. You have animals around your house, which rule over your time and over you mind and over your heart. You have your job from a master who is foreign to God and who reigns upon you, and whom you serve for a reward and do your tastes after you have worked so hard for them, and they vanish away after that and you take no delight in them even if you believe that, what you labor so much for, is a joy. Then you have the sin, which reigns over you, and which makes you disobey Me, the Teacher Who has come from the Father on earth then and now, and you nourish the sin from inside you and outside of you and you have no way to hide under it, because it leaves you naked of life and deprived of obedience for life and it nourishes you with its death, for when I came from the Father, I said that sin is death and that you eat death and you serve it. And I also tell you for your wakening up that the man cannot sin until after he dies first, after he throws away his life, which I have given him to live it on earth.

Oh, how many masters you have got, man who has been wounded because of your separation from My Holy Spirit, Who has been blowing for seven thousand years over the earth to call you again within the spirit of obedience to God! Oh, I have never been silent on earth and I have always spoken from heaven upon those who hear and share My speaking to call the man home, to take him within Me, so that I may take him under My mantle even as a hen gathers her chicken under her wings, but it is hard for the man to come to Me and to drink, and then rivers of living waters to flow from the mouth of his womb, of his heart, which is God's house, My womb in man.

Oh, you have many masters, man, and they have control upon you and they break down your life. Only Me you are not able to have as your Master and to serve Me and that I may exhort you as one of My obedient man and to give you eternal life as your reward, to give you the heaven on earth as your reward, to give you the heaven into your dominion on earth, but not to take Me out of it as the man, who was built by My hand out of dust and out of the breath of My mouth, took Me out denying Me, and then I also denied him and he died, because the man who is not always with God on earth dies, man taught by My mercy and which calls you to it. The man dies and does not live, because in order that the man may have life in him, he must have Me in him, for I am the life, and you know that I said that I am the way, the truth and the life. However, the life does not reign over you, but only death, and that is why you die, man. You love only your joy and not Mine, and your joy hurts Me, and in one day My pain from you will catch up with you and I would not like to go through such a great pain from your joys without God, and I come and I do not forsake you and I call you from heaven to earth to hear Me that I call you and that I wait for you to become My kingdom. Oh, I did not give you life to put away My life in you with your life. I have given you life to listen to Me afterwards, but you have loved death and it hurts Me because you do this, and I have come to you as word on earth, and I have come with the blowing of the wind and I speak to those who hear Me, for I make them hear Me to be able to teach you with My word, man, and to show you the life and its sweet way and the beauty on it and the joy of the life, for life means God, and you, man, do not take Me as your Lord, as your Teacher and your Master. However, I embrace you and I wrap you up within the mystery of My word, which blows from Me over you and I call you to take from you and from over you the death, which kills your spirit and your body, and from which your soul suffers, man.

Oh, I long to see that you love Me, and I come to call you and to learn how to be, and then to live My life, and that you may no longer live your life, for it is not good your life, which fills you with death, but the one from Me is good, that which gives you life of My life, man who squander your life. I have given you this talent and I have given you life to bring other lives with it to Me, and to give you the reward for your service and for your fruit brought to Me, so that you may enter My joy, for nowhere on earth do you find and you will never find what you find here, at the spring of My word which is the river of life, and your teachers on earth stop you from coming, for they are not teachers of life, but they are rather wolves clothed in skins of sheep to deceive you not to come to Me and to serve them and their empty glory instead, that is the man's praise, after I have taught them all through the Scriptures that I do not receive praise from men, so that all people may learn by this word how those who set themselves to shepherd the man want to win him over for them and not for Me. Woe to them! However, they do not want to believe that I am the One Who speak to them like that and that is why all will be suddenly torn down, for they neither love Me and nor you, man without any support on earth. They also want to bring under subjection the people of My word to them, but they will not be able to do this because the power of My teaching keeps My people alive and wise and it nourishes it with life, and with it I fulfill upon the earth and in the heaven the Scripture of My coming with the saints and for the saints, because I am the mysterious Shepherd as I was with the man built by My hand, who was set by Me in Paradise where I spoke mysteriously with him, and he heard Me.

Oh, man waited by the Father to come back to life! When you lack your spirit and when your mind carries you on its own, I know your ways and with tears I look at your wandering away and at its spirit, and behold, I try to draw you to Me with a sweet voice and that I may be your wealth, to be your share on the land of the living and to take your soul out of the dungeon, for your body and your spirit are the dungeon of your soul, which you have as a gift from Me, when you are born on earth, a man from man, and when I give you the soul as a gift. I speak to you with a sweet word, for My teaching is the sweetest food and it has life in it, only for you to know this what I tell you. It hurts Me when I see you possessed by those who steal away your freedom from Me, for the shepherds that you have cannot shepherd you without Me, because it is written: «Woe to the city where there is no word from God, the word of a God's prophet, for it will be torn down by people».

Oh, sons of the people, the day is coming when those who shepherd you will arise against each other, and those of them who will be left will come up into this mountain to worship God Sabaoth and to serve Him and I will feed them with the living waters, which will spring up of this mountain of word, and these will flow to east and west and I will be King over the entire earth as in this mountain, for it is written in the prophets: «In this time there will be only One Lord and One name and all the people will worship Him». Amen

Oh, sons of the people, hear My voice! My love becomes word over the earth. He comes with the clouds in a breeze of wind, with the voice of the Holy Spirit and comforts and exhorts and nourishes because He is the Comforter. Oh, how beautiful My word in heaven and on earth is! And as for you, those that at your voice have gathered under My love, which becomes word in order to taste the joy of My people and to bring glory and singing to Me, I will give you My mercy and then My love, if your heart knows the life and loves it and walks in its way. Amen.

And as for you, children from the gates, those who hear My word, turn your ear up to Me, for I will feed again with the Holy Spirit those who have gathered together and those who will still gather together at My calling, at My glory upon you. I give you powers and I give you from within Me, for you are feeble and I am a big God and I come down to you so that you may divide Me further, for the Father made Me into the Lamb Who cleanses the sins of the world, to renew it by the word, and then by the Holy Spirit, Who becomes a spring from those who believe in Me, of those who love Me with longing and thrill, because the yearning after Me is My life in man. Amen, amen, amen.
